This social service organization has taken on its current primary mission is to transport students to Central State University.

Earth Temple, a Columbus based non-denominational religious and a non-profit social service organization, is organizing a shuttle and a car pool from the Mt. Vernon Plaza to the Central State University campus in Wilberforce, Ohio. Anthony Hodge, the founder of Earth Temple, is a graduate of the Central State class of 1976. Hodge is a criminologist and private investigator. He was a commuter himself when he attended Central State. Earth Temple's new venture with Central State will begin in September on the first day of fall classes. The service is geared toward students who cannot afford to live on campus and choose to commute back and forth between Columbus and Central State. Earth Temple is in need of volunteers to help out the commuting service. For more information call 231-5595 or write the Earth Temple, Inc., P.O. Box 272100, Columbus, Ohio 43227.

This organization has previously sponsored Operation G.O.D. (Get Off Drugs) an anti-narcotics program. The teaching method is a relapse prevention unit, and every Christmas for the past six years, this social service organization sponsors toys for kids at Christmas, giving out $40-

50,000 of toys, books and games to thousands of children with welfare I.D.'s. Besides being a social service organization, Earth Temple has a primary interest in Uni-Faith Crusade, in which they teach Christians as well as others to get along with others by learning their various religions and cultures.

Dr. Hodge's uni-faith crusade evangelism can be seen and heard on ACT-TV channel 21, titled "Earth Temple Speaks." His message as well as his mission is ordained by public demand as well as God, helping students that Anthony was once one of and being a graduate of Central State University in 1976 with a Bachelor of Science degree in criminology and political science before he went on to graduate school at California College of Law studying in entertainment law and contract arbitration law.

Dr. Hodge claims that out of his private investigation practice and travels from around the world that he heard the call to evangelism.
